

application program reads the node identifier corresponding to the host name of the second node input, and a network layer reads the home prefix relating to the node identifier read.

00000000 00000000 00000000 00000000